Some examples of other events which may occur, and which may mean an additional legal bill and /or additional costs to you;

A party in the chain of transactions may die before completion. That could delay the whole process as it may be (but is not always the case) that Probate might have to be obtained before it can proceed.

- Problems are discovered with the title to the property you are buying or mortgaging.
- Your mortgage offer is incorrect and has to be replaced.
- Your mortgage offer is withdrawn.
- Another party in the conveyancing chain has mortgage or title problems which may cause a delay.

If any of these do occur, then we will let you know straightaway and ascertain the likely extra legal costs and any third party costs (for example the premiums for possible title defect insurance policies) which might have to be paid.

Please do look at our Purchase Mortgage and Remortgage Services Tables which sets out an outline of the work we do for the prices mentioned above and gives a possible timescale. However, conveyancing is heavily governed by the human factor and the time estimates can only be estimates because so much depends on everyone else involved.

We do not pay ESTATE AGENTS a referral fee to recommend clients to us.
